

I would like to object to the proposed expansion of Low Power FM (LPFM). As an amateur radio operator (license K1SSS) I am painfully aware of the repercussions to FM stations utilizing translators. I listen exclusively to FM 90.7 KLOVE in the Va Beach area and would be devastated if this signal were lost due to the proposed LPFM. I know there are several thousand people in the area who listen to this station and millions nationwide that rely on the FM translators to receive the signal. KLOVE's message is wholly positive and is the ONLY station in the area that is commercial free and family friendly. I implore you not to expand LPFM services at the risk of losing a station that promotes positive and encouraging radio in an era of 'not fit to listen to' stations. Our children deserve at least one station that provides a positive message. The air waves are far reaching and their content influences cultures, please don't expand LPFM services that could preempt this valuable station that relies on FM translator services.
